14.30 – 15.00	Responsive regulation Insurance regulation has transformed into a risk-based system over recent years. This year has seen its biggest challenge, with an increase in natural and man-made catastrophe claims and then, of course, the global COVID-19 pandemic. Has the regulatory system proved its ability to respond to these extreme conditions in a way which maintains the long-term stability of the sector? How has the mutual model, including non-distribution of profits to external investors and long-term relationships with policyholders, responded to the challenges? 15.15 – 15.45	Understanding risk There is a recognised trend for insurance to be part of the risk chain, with risk identification, prevention and management all vital components to managing risk and insurance exposures. How do mutual insurers play a role in providing risk management insights for their policyholders, helping to lower exposures, control costs and bridge protection gaps? Nick Charteris-Black , Managing Director, Market Development - EMEA, AM Best, United Kingdom Typhaine Beaupérin , CEO, Ferma Robert Moore , Client Enterprise Risk Manager, IPB Insurance, Ireland
15.45 – 16.00	Break
16.00 – 16.45	Sustainability: the heart of mutuality Having a sustainability strategy is now mainstream for all businesses in all industries; customers expect it, other businesses expect it, governments and civil society expect it. Momentum for sustainability and issues around climate change and the sustainable development goals (SDGs) is gathering real pace as we move towards the next key accountability landmark for our planet, namely COP26 in November 2021. For many in the mutual sector, sustainability is baked into our values-based strategies. It is part of our mutual advantage, but many in the mutual sector are still grappling with framing and reporting on it. How do we engage in the SDGs, implement TCFD (Task Force on Climate-Related Financial Disclosures), “green” our investment portfolio, and ultimately have a net-zero impact on climate change? This session will look at what leading insurers are doing in sustainability and the leadership role mutual insurers play. Panel discussion moderated by Shaun Tarbuck , CEO, ICMIF Virginia Antonini , Group Head of Sustainability, Reale Mutua, Italy Eric Van La Beck , Head of SRI, OFI, France
16.45 – 17.00	Closing keynote (recorded) Mairead McGuinness , European Commissioner, Financial Services, financial stability and Capital Markets Union
